THE USLUB OF TAFSIR AL-QURAN
Asep Habib Idrus Alawi
STAI Shalahuddin Al Ayyubi Jakarta
Email: rianto.msi23@gmail.com

Abstract
This article discusses the method of interpreting the Qur'an. After tracking bibliographic sources, it was found that the differences between the commentators of the Qur'an in the use and meaning of the terms manhaj and uslub. According to the author, the correct one, the term used for the Interpretation of Tahliili, Ijmali, Maudhu'i and Muqaran is uslub not manhaj. Uslub Tafsir Tahliili, is a systematic system used by an interpreter in interpreting the Koran in accordance with the order of verses and letters in the Mushaf, both in whole or in a number of verses or letters. Then in each verse explained everything related to the verse, for example the meaning of the word, the meaning of stylist, asbab nuzul, the laws contained, and the meaning of the whole verse. Uslub Tafsir Ijmali, is a mathematical commentator who adheres to the arrangement of verses that are grouped. Then, explained the general meaning or the whole verse in accordance with what is desired by the editorial verse. Uslub Tafsir Muqaran is collecting and comparing between the two interpretations of the ulama or more about the verses of the Koran, studying them, and concluding which interpretations are the most powerful. Uslub Tafsir Maudhu'i is a systematic writing of interpretations used by an interpreter by not following the order of verses in the Koran. But by collecting all the verses that speak the same theme, then explain and take legal conclusions.

Keywords: uslub; tahliili; ijmal; muqaran; maudhu'i

A. INTRODUCTION
Tafsir, if you see the lexical meaning, revolves around the meaning of al-Kasyfu wa al-Bayan. Both of these meanings can be mutually substituted in explaining one substance, one object, or something that can be sensed. If it says فسیر الكلام semantically, that is the same as ایمانی کلام. As for the term Al-Quran, according to al-Sabt (al-Sabt, 1421, p. 25), tafsir is: علم يبحث فيه عن أحوال القرآن العزيز من حيث دلالاته على مراحل تعاون بقدر طاقته البشرية. From this definition, practically, tafsir has existed since the revelation was delivered by the Prophet Muhammad PBUH to his Companions (Jumah, 1999, p. 72).

Of course, the Companions made him a reference in interpreting the Koran. For example, when a Bedouin Arab said about the 82nd sure of Surat al-An'am, فلما ظلما and أيننا لم يظلم نفسه؟ then the Prophet interpreted it with the letter Luqman verse 13. The Prophet interpreted the word zhalim in surat al-An'am verse 82 with the meaning of shirk contained in the letter Luqman verse 13 (al-'Akk, 1406, p. 32).

After the death of the Prophet, the development of interpretations was not too significant. The status of the Companions as speakers of Arabic, as students directly from the recipient of the revelation, as people who feel the conditions in which revelation comes down, plus their knowledge of the meanings behind the verses of the Koran that they know from the Prophet, are not enough for they are to form interpretive rules (Saeed, 2006, pp. 42–43). In fact, all of that makes them not feel the need to form interpretive rules which are actually arranged to rectify the understanding of the Koran (al-'Akk, 1406, p. 32).

The interpretations of the Koran they got from the Apostles were absorbed in the narration of the hadith. Therefore, we can find in the hadith books, such as Sahih Bukhari, a special chapter on interpretations. Among the companions of the Prophet who most narrated the commentaries of the Koran were Ali bin Abi Talib, Abdullah bin Masud, Abdullah Ibn Abbas, and Ubay bin Ka'ab. Ali bin Abi Talib narrated many interpretations of the Koran because indeed he had the breadth and depth of knowledge and was a source of fatwas in the time of the first three caliphs. As for the three remaining friends, namely Ibn Mas'ud, Ibn Abbas and Ubay bin Ka'ab, they are the ones who can be said to turn on the interpretation schools, if possible use the term muhaddiths (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 28). Ibn Abbas in Mecca, Ubay in Medina, and Ibn Mas'ud in Kuffah (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 32).

About Ibn Abbas, Imam Fairuz Abadi, author of Qamus al-Muhith, succeeded in collecting interpretations based on his history from Ibn Abbas, the turjuman al-Quran. Although by the Muhaqqiq the validity of the sanad was questioned. Syaikh Shalih Alu Shaykh for example, on the occasion of his lecture, he said (Alu Shaikh, n.d.):

«تَنْوِيرِ المُقْبَسِ مِنْ تَفَسِّيرِ ابن عُبَيْسٍ» وَهُدَى تَفَسِّيرُ لـَفِيروز آبَادِيِّ «المشهور صاحب التَّقاموس»، وَنُقَلُ فيه تَفَسِّيرِ ابن عُبَيْس المقوَّل بِطُريِقٍ واحِدٍ، وَهذَا الطُّريِق مُوضوع مكْذوبٍ؛ لِانَّهُ مِنْ طُرِيِقِ السَّلِّي الصَّغِير، وَهَوَّ أحد المَتَهَمين بِالوَضْعِ وَالْكُلَبِ. عن الكَلَبِيِّ -وَهَوَّ أحد المَتَهَمين بالكَلَبِ-، وَإِذَا كَانَ نَقُوَّل تَنْوِيرِ تِنْوِيرِ المَقْبَسِ مِنْ تَفَسِّيرِ ابن عُبَيْس هو أوَّل التَّفَسِّيرِ عن ابن عُبَيْس، ابن عُبَيْس أَصْحَوَ الطُّريِقَ عِنْهُ في التَّفَسِّيرِ سَحِيْحَةً عِنْي بَيْن أَبِي عُلَيَّة عِنْهُ ابن عُبَيْس، وأوَّلِ الطُّريِقَ عِنْهُ في التَّفَسِّيرِ هذَا الطُّريِقَ وَهُوَ مَا رَوَى فِي هذَا الْكِتَابِ الَّذِي هُوَ مِنْ طُرِيِقٍ بِشْرِ بَيْن مَوْرَانِ السَّلِّي الصَّغِيرِ وَالْكَلَبِيِّ إِلَى أَلْآخِرِهِ.

In the era of tabi'in, the development of interpretations was not too different from the previous era. They were very careful in interpreting the Koran, until it was reported that Sa'id bin Musayyab was often silent when asked about the interpretation of the Koran. However, there are those who distinguish between this era and the era of friends, namely the inclusion of the history of isra'iliyyat (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 30).

When the era of bookkeeping hadith, interpretations also took place in the development which originally spread based on talaqqi and history into one written history and very attentive to the sanad. In the early days of this writing, the interpretation was only one part of the chapters contained in the hadith book. Later in the subsequent developments the interpretation became the science that had its own identity which at the end of its development came diverse interpretations (al-Rumi, 1416, pp. 35–36).

In the study of the sciences of the Qur'an and the method of interpretation, three terms appear in contemporary interpretive sciences, namely al-Ittijah, Al-Manhaj, al-Ushlub or al-tariqah. Actually, these terms can be found in interpretative studies at the beginning of their development. In fact, the researchers of this knowledge are not even one word in interpreting each of these terms. Therefore, for one term they interpret it with different meanings (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 55). Through these three terms, the commentators formulate the distinctive features of the existing commentaries and try to classify them. This paper also wants to try to explain the grouping of interpretations.

B. METHOD

This article is written by tracking bibliographic sources. A number of references are seen and the theoretical description is reformulated to review the related work of existing commentary scholars. From the references obtained, it was found that a number of references were complementary, some also added descriptions for other references.

C. RESULT AND DISCUSSION

1. Tafsir Tahlili (Interpretation of Tahlili)

a. Understanding of the Interpretation of Tahlili

Language interpretation is a tarkib ismi (noun phrase) which consists of two words, namely interpretations and tahlili. Understanding interpretations both in terms of language and terms has been mentioned in the previous point. As for tahlili according to language is the derivation of the word hallala, which means deciphering or analyzing (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 55).
In terms of, Tafsir Tahlili (analytical) or also called tajzi'i's interpretation, is a method that intends to explain and describe the contents of the verses of the Qur'an from all sides, according to the order of the verses in a letter. In this interpretation, the verse is interpreted comprehensively and comprehensively both with ma'tsur and ra'yi. The elements considered are asbabun nuzul, munasabah ayat and also the meaning of harfiyah for every word (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 55).

In other words, the Interpretation of Tahlili in terms is the method used by the exegete in exposing the verse to its words, and the interpreter looks at the clauses of the verses in various aspects and explains the interrelationship of words with other words in one verse or several verses. before, because this method was only recently introduced (Rokim, 2017). In Tasfir Tahlili, systematics used by a mufassir in interpreting the Koran in accordance with the order of verses and letters in the Mushaf, both in whole and in a number of verses or letters only. Then in each verse explained everything related to the verse, for example the meaning of the word, the meaning of stylist, asbab nuzul, the laws contained, and the meaning of the whole verse (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 55).

b. Strengths and Weaknesses of the Interpretation of Tahlili

The systematic features of this interpretation are: 1) It is the systematics of the earliest interpretations that appear. Even before the time of interpretation; 2) The dominant systematics of interpretation is chosen by the interpreters, both past and present. For example, Tabari interpretation, Tafsir al-Khazin, Tafsir al-Baghawi, Ibn Kathir, etc.; and 3) Interpreters compete in making their interpretations differ with previous interpretations, for example in terms of a concise language and extensive discussion, or some use the method of interpretation of bi al-ma`tsur while others use bi al-ra`yi. Then, some others focus on the explanation of the language and qira`at, while others focus on the explanation of the story and the law, or some are trying to relate it to the verses of kauniyyah and science. However, all methods used in interpreting the verse are still one type of systematics of interpretation, namely the Interpretation of Tahlili (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 58). Meanwhile, the weaknesses (Junaedi, 2016, p. 20) are: 1) Making the Qur'anic instructions partial; 2) Tends to be shallow and narrow-minded; 3) Giving birth to subjective interpretations; and 4) Opening the entrance to authentic interpretation because the facilitator is free to convey ideas (Hitami, 2012, p. 47).

c. Urgency of the Interpretation of Tahlili

Although it contains deficiencies and invites the arrival of the negative side, the difference in the method of the tahlili must be acknowledged that this method of interpretation of the tahlili has contributed greatly to the preservation and development of Islamic intellectual treasures, especially in the interpretation of the Koran. great and monumental work. Thus, the urgency of this method must be recognized. Only, it is necessary to know where the urgency of this method lies (Anieg, 2016).

The tahlili method is more reliable if the goal to be achieved is a broad understanding (understanding in various aspects) of the content of the Koran. In other words, the urgency of the tahlili method lies in its existence which is able to provide a broader understanding (various aspects) compared to other methods of interpretation (Amin, 2017).

d. Tahlili Interpretation Style

Abdul Hayy Al-Farmawi included various interpretations into the Tahlili interpretation such as: tafsir Bil Ma`tsur; interpretation of bi al-Ra`yi; interpretation of al-Fiqhi; Interpretation of al-Adab al-Ijtima`i Adab (Al-Farmawy, 1996, p. 29).

2. Tafsir Ijmali (Interpretation of Ijmali)
The word "Ijmaliy" is global. Thus, ijmaliy's interpretation is a method of interpretation that interprets the verses of the Qur'an by expressing its meaning globally (al-Farmawy, 1996, p. 29). Ijmali interpretations are systematics of interpreters who adhere to a grouped arrangement of verses. Then, explained the general meaning or the whole verse according to what is desired by the editorial of the verse. The language used to explain the verse is a common language that is easy to understand.

In another sense, the ijmal interpretation is if the interpreter interprets the verse in accordance with the grouped verses, then explains the meaning of the whole verse and the conclusions obtained. It can also be stated that the ijmal interpretation is the transfer of meaning, namely the mufassir does not translate unit words, but the grammatical meaning or even the overall meaning of one group of verses. Systematics of this type of interpretation are mostly chosen by contemporary commentators. For example, the interpretation of Kalam al-Manan by as-Sa'di, at-Taisir fi Ahaditsi Tafseer by Muhammad al-Makki an-Nashiri, Tafsir al-Ajza'u al-Ashrat al-Ula. Mahmud Syaltut, etc. (al-Farmawy, 1996, p. 59).

3. Tafsir Muqaran (Interpretation of Muqaran)

a. Understanding the Interpretation of Muqaran

The word "Muqaran", etymologically, is a form of passive participle noun from the verb "Qarana. In Arabic, it can mean the al-Jam'u, al-Washlu and al-Mushahabah. The term is comparing between two cases or more with the purpose of equating or distinguishing then taking which is stronger, this applies to all science. The meaning of the interpretation of muqaran is to collect and compare between two interpretations of the ulama or more about the verses of the Koran, study them, and conclude which interpretation is the most powerful (al-Mushni, 1427, p. 154).

In other terms, Tafsir Muqaran is a process when the mufassir explains one verse by collecting other verses, hadiths or atsar and the opinions of the other interpreters of the ulama, then these arguments are compared and concluded which is the most powerful interpretation (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 60).

Practically this interpretation has existed since the beginning of the interpretation of the Koran, even though this term was not used. But certainly, differences in understanding between the Companions of the Prophet and the people who lived after them, differences in scientific knowledge, the number of references and methods of taking history, as well as differences in folk patterns led the interpreters to compare those opinions, as did Ibnu Jarir al-tabari (al-Mushni, 1427, p. 155). Even so, until now there has not been a single interpretive book that completely interprets the Koran with uslub tafsir muqaran.

b. Urgency of the Interpretation of Muqaran

Undoubtedly, this interpretation of muqaran is very important (Shihab, 2006, p. 138), both for interpreters and for the science of interpretation itself. Its urgency includes: 1) Realizing scientific interpretation through various Islamic sciences; 2) Form a comparable pattern that is in accordance with scientific rules and leads to an understanding of the causes of difference; 3) The ability to explain the side of equality and differences of views among the mufassir shows the power of reason and into science; 4) Cleansing interpretations of weak arguments; 5) Growing the power of reason; and 6) Providing contributions to science through work (al-Mushni, 1427, p. 184).

c. Various Interpretations of Muqaran

The interpretation of muqaran in terms of its objects has two types / forms, namely: 1) Al-Muqaranah al-Tahilliyyah, which compares the opinions of commentators and explains the possibilities of meanings contained in the texts of the Koran (al-Mushni, 1427, p. 160); and 2) Al-Muqaranah fi al-Manahij wa al-Ittijahat, which compares the methods and direction of interpretation of the interpreters with in-depth studies (al-Mushni, 1427, p. 169).
Fahd bin Abdurrahman provides another division of the interpretation of muqaran, namely: 1) Comparing between one text of the Koran and another text of the Koran that is meaningful or seems contradictory. This is included in the realm of the muskili al-Quran. Or compare two complementary verses, for example the verses of the story; 2) Comparing one verse with the hadith of the Prophet which corresponds to or which appears contradictory; 3) Comparing the Koran with biblical or gospel texts to explain the features of the Koran or to explain the falsehood of the gospel. For example the book, the Qur'an al-Karim wa al-Taurat wa al-Injil wa al-Quran, the work of Ibrahim Khalil, etc.; 4) Comparing the opinions of the commentators and in-depth review of those opinions accompanied by evidence from each opinion (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 60).

Steps and Methods for preparing Muqaran interpretations: 1) Making boundaries of the study. For example, comparing al-Jashash with Ibn Arabi in the interpretation of the Koran; 2) Making a systematic review; 3) Collect and compile material; 4) Analysis of the comparison between two opinions in depth. For example, comparing between the two propositions used by comparing sources of excerpts, degrees of hadith and criticism; and 5) Give conclusions from the comparative analysis and choose one opinion that he considers stronger (al-Mushni, 1427, p. 180-183).

Things that need to be considered in the preparation of the interpretation of Muqaran: 1) Must compare between two interpreters or more, the differences and similarities both in the method, the method of delivery and the style of interpretation; 2) The compiler of the interpretation of muqaran must be an expert; 3) Composers must have a strong power to compare two opinions objectively; 4) Honest in reviewing, not ta'ashub, ethics and tawadhu ’for differences of opinion among the consultants (al-Mushni, 1427, p. 184).

4. Tafsir Maudhu’i (Interpretation of Maudhu’i)

a. Understanding the Interpretation of Maudhu’i

Interpretation of the maudhu’i, etymologically, is an adjective phrase or phrase that is composed of nouns and adjectives, namely tafsir (noun) and maudhu’i (adjective). The word "al-Maudhu’i", etymologically, is the noun passive patriciple of the word وضع / wadha'a which means “to put it”. Terminologically, al-Maudhu’i has several meanings depending on the field of study of the science that uses it. In the terms of the science of hadith, maudhu ‘means utterance made to be based on the Prophet either intentionally or not. The ‘ulama of mantiq interpreted “maudhu” as something which is determined to be explained or punished. As for the commentators, the interpreter defines maudhu ‘as a problem discussed in the Koran with editors and in different places, which have similar meanings or intention (Sa’id, 1991, p. 20).

The definition of the maudhu’i interpretation itself is the systematic writing of interpretations used by a mufassir by not following the order of verses in the Koran, but by collecting all the verses which speak the same theme, then explain and take legal conclusions (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 61). That is, according to al-Dhahabi, we choose one aspect of the themes of the Koran then discuss it in depth. The theme is explained from various aspects to the smallest things related to the theme, which may not be accommodated in the general interpretation (read: besides the interpretation of maudhu’i). Usually this interpretation is occupied by people who have special knowledge and are encouraged to study it, with the Koran as the subject of the study. For example, Ibn Qayyim, who focuses on discussing Aqṣamu al-Quran in his commentary, al-Tibyan fi Aqsami al-Quran, Abu Ubada, which discusses majaz in the Koran, or also Abu Hasan al-Wahidi which focuses on discussing Nuzul al-Qur’an (al-Dhahabi, n.d., p. 69)

b. History of Tafsir Maudhu’i

Tafsir Maudhu’i has existed since the beginning of Islam, that is, the Koran came down to the Prophet Muhammad. For example, Abd al-Salam Fathullah mentions that this interpretation of maudhu’i’y has long existed in a simple form, then grew and developed over time, as did other sciences. In the end, this interpretation has one specific term and study (Sa‘īd, 1991, p. 28). His statement is certainly not without reason. He gave several examples, among others, when descending surat al-An‘ām verse 82 which was later interpreted with the letter Luqman verse 13 about the meaning of zhulmun (Sa‘īd, 1991, p. 29). However, some other commentators have different opinions about the history of this interpretation.

For example, Samir Abdurrahman al-Rishwani, he rejected the opinion of some commentators who said that the interpretation of the maudhū‘iy had existed since the beginning of Islam. can be used as a basis for interpretation of maudhū‘i. However, this discussion of the application of writing has historically been the origin of the birth of this type of interpretation (al-Rishwani, 2009, p. 74). He continued, the examples mentioned by those who argued that the interpretation of the maudhū‘i had since the beginning of Islam were actually not appropriate.

It was all just an example of the interpretation of the Koran bi al-Qur‘an and could not be said to be a commentary on maudhū‘iy. Because, first, the initial purpose of the interpretation of the Koran with the Koran is to explain the meaning of the verse that is difficult to understand with other verses or explain the verses that are still mujmal, while that is not the intention of the commentary maudhū‘i. Second, actually at that time there was no reason for the birth of the interpretation of maudhū‘iyya. It was because of its peculiarities and motives and it did not yet exist, that is, it must be in the form of writing and may not be narrated based on oral as it was in those days. Likewise, their attention to understanding the details of the problems of the Koran has not come to a thorough consideration and holistic discussion. The proof is that general rules in Islamic disciplines only emerged in the next era (al-Rishwani, 2009, p. 74).

After that, this interpretation will develop rapidly until now. Among the causes of the development of the interpretation of maudhū‘i, at least, are: 1) Contemporary scientific studies that require detailed and in-depth study; 2) The entry of orientalis influences in Islamic studies. They compiled a book such as mu‘jam mufahras which not only benefits them but also for Muslims; and 3) The sincerity of Muslim scholars / scholars in refuting Orientalist opinions about Islam and the Koran in particular (Sa‘īd, 1991, p. 34).

c. Urgency of Tafsir maudhū‘i

This type of interpretation has a lot of urgency, including: 1) Increasingly clarifying the miracle of the Koran; 2) One study theme is presented clearly and perfectly; 3) Meet the needs of the times; and 4) Become the root of the combination of Koranic studies and science. The various themes of the maudhū‘i interpretation of the above, all can be grouped into two major parts: 1) Studies related to the other side of the Koran such as asbab nuzul, makīyyah and madaniyyah; and 2) Studies that are directly related to the Quranic texts such as nasikh and mansukh, muhkam-mutasyabbih, etc. (al-Rishwani, 2009, p. 78).

This interpretation also has several forms: 1) Interpretation of the Koran with the Koran; 2) Interpretation of the verse al-Ahkam, e.g. al-Jami li Ahkami al-Quran by Imam al-Qurthubi, Ahkamu al-Quran by al-Jashshash, Ahkamu al-Quran by Ibn al‘Arabi, Naiul al-Maram min Tafsir Ayati al-Ahkam by Muhammad Shidiq Hasan, Tafsir Ayat al-Ahkam by Muhammad Ali ash-Shabuni, etc.; 3) Al-Asybah wa al-Nadha‘ir. Mufassir seeks the same words in the Koran and explains the meaning of each according to the theme of the verse. then explain the use of the word with other meanings in another verse. Examples of these interpretations include, al-Asybah wa al-Nadha’ir fi al-Quran al-Karim by Muqathil bin Sulaiman, al-Tasharif by Yahya bin Salam, Basha’iru dzawai al-Tamyiz fi Latha’ifi al-Kitabi al-Azizi by Imam al-Fairuz Abadi, Nuzhatu al-‘Ayuni al-Nawadhur fi illmi al-Wujuhi wa al-Nadha’ir by Ibn al-Jauzi, etc. Most of these interpretations study the Koran in terms of language. 4) Al-Dirasat al-Tafsiriyyah (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 61).

It is the interpreter who examines specific themes and collects related verses, for example al-nasikh wa al-mansukh by Al-Qasim bin Salam and Abu Ja’far an-Nahas, Ta’wil Musykili al-Quran by Ibn Qutaibah, Amtsal al-Quran by al-Mawardi, at-Tibyan fi Aqṣami al-Quran by Ibn al-Qayyim, Majaz al-Quran by Izzuddin Abdi al-Salam, etc. (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 61).

From there we can see that the interpretation of the maudhu’i has existed since the beginning of the preparation of the commentaries, even before the bookkeeping period. We cannot deny also that the interpretation of maudhu’i is growing rapidly in the present with its variety of types. Even to make it easier for the Koranic scholars, an orientalist compiles verses of the Koran based on the theme, entitled Tafshil Ayati al-Koran al-Karim. However, until now no one has written a complete thematic interpretation, one Qur’an (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 61).

In addition to the form, the commentary maudhu’i also has several analysis techniques, including: 1) A reviewer looks for one type of word in the Koran and collects it. After that explained the content of the meaning and use in the Koran. For example, "Sentence' al-Haqq 'fi al-Quran al-Karim." By Muhammad Abdurrahman al-Rawi, "al-Ummah fi in the al-rArabiyah wa al-Quraniyah" by Dr. Ahmad Hasan Farhat, etc; 2) A mufassir collects verses related to one theme but with the editorial of different verses. Then he presents in the form of analysis accompanied by related arguments and comments. This includes the types of interpretations which are mostly written such as I’jazu al-Quran, nasikh wa al-Mansukh, or in modern times interpretations appear relating to the verses of jihad, for example, health, science, and education, sociology; and 3) An interpreter examines a theme in the Koran and limits it to certain letters. This type is the same as the type in point two, only this study material is narrower. An example for this type of interpretation is "Tashawwur al-Uluhiyyah Kama Tu’ridhuhu surat al-‘An'am by Dr. Ibrahim al-Kailani, Qadhaya al-Mar’ati fi surati al-Nisa by Muhammad Yusuf, or Suratul al-Waqi'ah wa Manhajuha fi al-qAqidah, etc. (al-Rumi, 1416, p. 61).

D. CONCLUSION

Based on the description above, we can take a number of things that become conclusions, namely: Differences in the interpretation of the Koran in the use and meaning of the terms manhaj and uslub. According to the author, the truth, the term used for the distribution of interpretations to tahlili, ijmali, maudhu’i and muqaran is uslub. Understanding each of the commentators; 1) Tahlili interpretation, is a systematics used by a mufassir in interpreting the Koran in accordance with the order of verses and letters in the Mushaf, both in whole or in a number of verses or letters. Then in each verse explained everything related to the verse, for example the meaning of the word, the meaning of stylist, asbab nuzul, the laws contained, and the meaning of the whole verse; 2) Ijmali interpretation, is a mathematical commentator who adheres to the arrangement of verses that are grouped. Then, explained the general meaning or the whole verse in accordance with what is desired by the editorial of the verse; Muqaran interpretation is to collect and compare between the two interpretations of the ulama or more about the verses of the Koran, study them, and conclude which interpretation is the most powerful; and 4) Maudhu’i interpretation is a system of writing interpretations used by a mufassir by not following the order of verses in the Koran. But by collecting all the verses that speak the same theme, then explain and take legal conclusions.
References

